International Choreographer Ira Weisburd from Florida has choreographed a new dance called 'SBS Shuffle Boogie Soul'. The dance started life through the songs T-Bone Shuffle by Bozz Scaggs and James Brown's original Honky Tonk.

However all that changed after Ira stumbled upon Preston Shannon's version of Honk Tonk. After a video of the dance was posted on Youtube, Ira received an email from Preston and an idea was born.

Preston Shannon is a legendary blues guitarist and singer and he has agreed to promote the dance on his worldwide tour at the First Annual Treasure Coast Blues Festival in Port St. Lucie, Florida on Saturday November 6 2010.

So here is your chance to actually participate in a world wide 'Line dance flash mob' with a dance simulcast from the festival to Line dance classes and events around the world. Right now, organisers are gathering names of all the groups and locations that would like to participate in this groundbreaking event.

Preston says: "To all of you around the world who already have learned SBS and those of you who are discovering it, let me first say congratulations to Ira for creating this fabulous dance and to the dancers as well. To all of you who are taking part in this, thank you so much and keep on dancing."
